Dear Eda

This is my off. day. I have been laying around doing nothing this morning until I feel real stupid. I received your letter both of them and.

I do not know what I would do with out them

The prospects that you have and that I had reference to, ~~are~~ the prospects of studying music in Boston and perhaps Germany. You will smile perhaps at the Eda but nothing is impossible with the ability and determination that you have. You see I fully realize that music is my greatest rival, and what makes it greater than any person would be, is the fact I can say nothing against it

I can simply acknowledge that it is my superior

As far as your experience with I. is concerned, I will admit there is something about that I can not understand, of course I know comparatively nothing about it, But I can not understand where there could be anything in common between you. He has no real depth and is incapable of loving as you can and will love somebody, what he calls love is what you would call friendship. and he will never experience the deep feeling that you are capable of.

We can have a great many friends that we think a great deal of. I believe I have a few of the best friends a person was ever blessed with.

among them is The Burr family, the Pincher family, the Gilluli family, an Arthur Widgway, Could any-body select any better friends?

No, I am sure they could not. And I love them all.

But. It is different you know

But my mind wanders. I will try and get back to the letter again.

If that letter had the effect you spoke of I am glad I wrote, I wish I could write another that would have the same effect but I am afraid that one will counteract the effect of the other

As for as trusting any one is concerned I da we men are all frauds and are neither what we would like to be or what we think we are. But with Gods help.

I will try to be a man that you will not only love but be proud of.

I am not through but I must stop in order to get him on the train
I will write again soon
Over Yours Clin

I will be in Washington
Monday & Tuesday
Clifton Wed & Thursday
